

Extravaganza goes Friday

Elk Point will be the centre of pre-Christmas excitement this Friday evening, December 10, when the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce presents their annual Christmas Extravaganza. Late night shopping until 11 p.m., combined with contests and a variety of activities, will bring a lot of people into town to enjoy the ever-popular event.

This year, 22 businesses are participating in the extended business hours. A purchase at any one of these will entitle a shopper to a draw slip which is to be deposited in that store's draw box. Many stores are featuring in-store draws, after which all of the draw slips will be taken to a central location for the grand prize draws, which will take place shortly after 11 p.m. Once again, Elk Point's own currency will be the prize, with draws for $300, $200 and $100 Elk Point Bucks, which may be spent at any of the businesses which are part of the Extravaganza. Winners have until January 15 to spend their Bucks.

A coloring contest, with prizes kindly donated by Alberta Power, will offer fun for the younger set. The contest picture and entry form will be found on the back page of the Extravaganza flyer. Each of three age groups: 5 and under, 6 to 8 and 9 to 12 years, will have one prize winner.

Activities will include, weather permitting, horse drawn hay rides, for a minimal charge of $1 per rider, a bonfire and a downtown skating rink (weather permitting). Santa will, of course, make his annual visit.

Elk Point Farmers Market has a special Market and Christmas Mini Craft Sale in the Peter Fidler Centre (old Pioneer Circle Hall) until 9 p.m. that evening, in conjunction with the Extravaganza.

Elk Point Lioness Club will be on hand in the downtown area to offer free hot chocolate. They will also offer hot dogs for $1, with proceeds going to their annual Santas Anonymous campaign. Elk Point and District Lions Club will also be there, collecting names for their giant community Christmas Card.

All this, plus the excellent specials being offered by the merchants, will make it a big night, and a fun one, for the community. Don't miss it!

Reverse Trade Fair today

Elk Point's first ever Reverse Trade Fair goes this afternoon from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre.

The fair is a new concept aimed at getting local suppliers in touch with potential customers from industry and large businesses. Ten businesses from the oil industry and other sectors, such as the hospital, will be there with their "shopping lists" of needs, and local retailers have been invited to visit the fair to meet with these people and see what needs each can fill.

Elk Point hosts Norcen cup

Elk Point Peewees will once again be hosting the annual Norcen Cup Peewee Hockey Tournament this coming weekend. The tournament is sponsored by Norcen Energy Resources Ltd. and Lloydminster Heavy Crude (Elk Point office). Come down to the arena and watch these fine young athletes in action!

CRAFTS FOR CHRISTMAS - Numerous craft sales are one of the signs of the approaching Christmas season. This one, at which Elsie Oryshchuk and Hughie Krucik were among the stallholders, was enjoyed by the patients and public at Elk Point Municipal Hospital last week.

Christmas shopping hours extended

A number of local merchants will be offering extended shopping hours for the Christmas season. These were announced at the December 1 meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

These stores were open until 9 p.m. last Friday night, and will of course be open until 11 p.m. this coming Friday for the Extravaganza. Extended hours for both Thursday and Friday will see the stores open until 9 p.m. on December 16 and 17, while during the week immediately before Christmas, they will remain open until 9 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, December 22 and 23.

Stores will close at 5 p.m. on Christmas Eve, December 24 and New Year's Eve, December 31.

Local banks and the Town Office will be closed Monday, December 27 and Tuesday, December 28 to allow their employees an extended holiday weekend.

Alberta Power: good news for chamber

Ashton Sewlal of Alberta Power's Bonnyville office and Terry Poulin, St Paul District Superintendent, visited the December 1 meeting of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce as part of Alberta Power's move to higher visibility in the communities they serve.

In marked contrast from Alberta Power's last visit, when major power price hikes were feared if the Alberta Electric Energy Marketing Agreement (AEEMA) came to an end, Sewlal had good news for the Chamber.

Power bills increased two percent as of November 1, but will go down one of those percentage points on January 1, 1994. The changes are "entirely to do with income tax" calculations, Sewlal said. No other rate increases are anticipated at this time, and in fact, "we're working hard to reduce our rates over the next few years," he added. Alberta Power is currently decentralizing its offices and "moving staff closer to the customer base" for better service.

Regarding AEEMA, Poulin said Alberta's utility companies "have agreed to disagree," when they could not come to a solution. The situation has gone back to the Minister, and if any changes are made, they will be made at government level.

Alberta Power will also be in attendance at the Reverse Trade Fair, where they will display their Power Smart House. Both Sewlal and Poulin expressed a willingness to increase their interaction with Elk Point, and asked to be kept informed of upcoming events where they can be involved.

What's Happening at Community Services

Let's talk about Christmas!

Stress and fatigue among women at Christmas time are as common as mistletoe and mince pies.

- Take a critical look at the way you're preparing for the festive season. Perhaps you're trying to do too much or trying to do everything letter-perfect. These impossible objectives can only lead to failure and frustration, which, in turn, cause stress. Set more realistic goals. The world won't come to an end and your family will enjoy Christmas just as much.

- Instead of worrying and fretting about the 100 things you have to do, control the situation: list the projects in order of priority and tackle them one at a time.

- Don't work yourself into a frazzle. Take a break for a few hours or even 30 minutes. Go somewhere where it is peaceful. Sit in your room listening to your favorite music, take a walk in the snow in a nearby park or sit in the hushed silence of a church. You'll be surprised how much better you'll feel.

- If preparing for Christmas is proving to be too much of a hassle, don't suffer in silence. Share your problems with your husband and kids, and maybe a close friend. Letting off steam reduces tension and involving the whole family in holiday preparation can make it more meaningful and enjoyable for all.

Acquire skills in one or more techniques to control and reduce stress. Learning stress control serves you well not only during the holiday season but also all year round.

Happy holiday!

WINTER GAMES

The Town of Vermilion and the Village of Mannville are working hard (and being very creative in the process) on the preparations for the 1994 Northeastern Alberta Winter Games. There will be activities for everyone:

- playoffs leading to the 1994 Winter Games in St. Albert

- events for adults
- events for seniors
- cultural events
- family activities

So don't miss out on the fun, "Catch the Spirit" and get involved. Contact Community Services at 724-3800 for more details.

COMMUNICATION WITH TEENS

Keeping the lines of communication open during adolescence is a key to helping teens get the most out of life during this challenging time of life.

A group of students listed some ways they'd like their parents to communicate. THEIR advice:

- Don't pressure us to achieve all the time.
- Tell us you love us even if we act like we don't want to hear it.
- Be honest with us. We all know what it's like to be lied to.
- Don't yell at us. Nothing makes us want to fight back more.

- Let us form our own opinions about some things. Chances are they are a lot like yours.

- If we have a major problem, help us solve it. Don't solve it for us; if you do, we'll never learn how to function as adults.

- We love to hear about your teenage years. These stories don't always have to teach us a lesson - they're fun.

- Never stop talking to us. You are the only ones we can count on for reassurance and love.

Managing retirement income

Focus on RRIFs

Gord Henry

Manager, Toronto Dominion Bank

Over the next couple of months, a vast number of Canadians will be considering their annual RRSP contributions, to boost their savings for retirement and take advantage of tax savings. For people approaching retirement, the focus changes from accumulating retirement savings to managing retirement income. Because RRIFs (Registered Retirement Income Funds) are tax-sheltered plans which are a natural extension of RRSPs, they are becoming an increasingly popular retirement income option.

RRIFs (which, if selected, must be purchased with your RRSP funds before the end of the year in which you celebrate your 71st birthday) provide considerable flexibility in terms of income management. When a RRIF is purchased, an annual minimum payout is established (indicating the minimum amount of income you must withdraw every year) but beyond that minimum, you may withdraw as much or as little as you like. As with RRSPs, you pay tax only on the amount you withdraw, so investments within your RRIF are tax sheltered. And - again like RRSPs - you can choose from a broad range of investments, from GICs to mutual funds, with self-directed RRIFs allowing for bonds, equities and other securities. This investment flexibility provides the opportunity to boost your returns, take advantage of rising interest rates, diversify your portfolio, and develop approaches to protect against inflation.

In recent years, RRIFs have been improved in terms of flexibility of payouts, and the ability to provide for income past the planholder's 90th birthday. Other improvements have resulted from the efforts of financial institutions to provide a competitive range of RRIF products. So if you are approaching retirement age, ask your banker to review the available options - and feel free to call TD's Green Infoline at 1-800-387-2092, if you need further information.

Our Past

By Steve Andrichak

During the early 1930s, a man named Seth Gibson settled in the Elk Point district. Shortly after his arrival, he built a home about one mile east of where Martin Aarbo lives. There was nothing fancy about his house - it was crudely built and had very little in the way of furniture.

Some of his neighbors learned that he came from eastern Canada where he worked in various logging camps throughout Ontario and Quebec. Little else was known of his past history. He was a bachelor and had no known relatives in western Canada. He lived a simple life and his only source of income came from his surrounding neighbors when he was paid to take out logs or help them with other farm chores.

Seth pretty well kept to himself and few people really got to know him well. He was regarded as a very unusual person, a man who had many ideas - some which were not accepted by our many residents. Seth never caused anyone any trouble nor did he ever do anything irrational that I know of - he just seemed to live in a world of his own.

During the years Seth lived in our community, many stories came to be told about him, some true, while others no doubt were fabricated by those who were acquainted with him. One story that made its rounds and which was often repeated took place about 1935. At that time, Seth had no means of transportation other than his own two legs. Whenever he needed groceries or other supplies he always walked to Elk Point - a round trip of about ten miles. He was a fast walker and could outdistance many people who were much younger than himself. One day while Dr. F. G. Miller was driving his Dodge touring car, he met Seth near the site of our east cemetery. He was carrying a 50 pound sack of flour on his shoulder and wasn't wasting any time. The doctor stopped his car and asked Seth if he wanted a ride. He promptly replied, "No thanks, Doctor, I'm in a hurry to get home today."

Seth used to print his own money with a toy printing press. He used lined paper taken from a school scribbler. His currency in no way resembled the bills in use at the time. When asked why he printed his own money, he replied "The government prints it, why can't I?" One day he made a list of supplies he needed and sent an order to the T. Eaton Company in Winnipeg, enclosing enough of his home made money to pay for his order. Eatons apparently wouldn't honor his curde currency and for that reason never shipped his order.

Another story that concerned Seth Gibson was told to me by the late Raymond Keitges, who at the time was visiting with his parents on the farm a mile east of the Gibson residence. Apparently his father, Pete Keitges, hired Seth to take out some logs and Raymaond went along to help out. One day while they were working a storm suddenly blew up. A streak of lightning lit up the sky and was followed by a loud clap of thunder. Seth suddenly looked up at the sky, shook his fist and said "I'm not afraid of You, God - You don't scare me one little bit." Soon after, the sound of thunder intensified, and instead of one bolt of lightning, about four lit up the sky followed by more very loud thunder. Seth again looked up at the sky and in a very subdued tone uttered "I didn't mean it, God - I was only joking."

Augie Bartling, one of our old timers, used to tell another story about Seth Gibson. It concerned a cellar door which was located inside Seth's doorway. This cellar door was always left open when Seth went to bed and it remained that way until he got up the next morning. When asked why he did this, he replied "I never had any use for the devil and should he ever pay me a visit during the night he would fall into my cellar and before he knew what happened, I would nail the cellar door shut. I would teach him never to come to my house again."

During the years Seth lived in the Elk Point district he was a much talked about man. He practically became a legend. He was by no means a fool and many thought he acted that way just to get added attention.

In later years, the health authorities decided some of Seth's actions were alarming and had him placed in an institution. He remained there for a few years and finally died there. Seth was a real character, one who always gave the people of Elk Point something to talk about while he lived in our district. Although different in many ways, he did, however, earn a place in Elk Point's past history.

What's News at the Library

Looks a lot like Christmas!

Libraries Matter for your Mind

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas around town and at the Library. Come in and enjoy our decorations while looking for a favorite book. Since the feeling of Christmas is in the air, we have a couple of questions to think about in this festive season. Where did the idea of the Christmas tree originate, and when was the first Christmas card created?

Parents! Mark your calendars for the Elk Point Public Library's Christmas Party for the preschoolers on Friday, December 17 at 10:30 a.m. Join us in this fun celebration, and meet that beloved, jolly old fellow, Santa Claus.

Just a reminder about our used book sales in the front entrance of the library. Hard cover books are 50 cents, pocket books 25 cents and magazines 10 cents.

Champions curl in the book Curling To Win by Ed Lukowich. A guide for both the expert and the beginner, it offers conditioning programs, practice methods and strategies to improve one's game, as well as proven concentration methods, shots and releases to give the reader the winning edge.

The Canadian Cowboy: Stories of cows, cowboys and cayuses by Andy Russell is the history of a rare and tough breed, the Canadian cowboy. The book concentrates on Alberta, but with a tip of the ten-gallon hat to the ranching country in Saskatchewan and British Columbia, the author pays tribute to the men whose hardiness withstood anything the elements could throw at them, a quality still to be seen today in professional rodeo athletes.

Yesterday They Took My Baby: True stories of adoption by Ben Wicks, best selling author of No Time To Wave Goodbye. Questions that adoptees ask: Why did you give me away? Why do I have dark hair? Am I Irish, Jewish? Do I come from a line of gypsies? Royalty? In essence, this book tells how the adoptee wants to fill in the blank voids of one's life.

All of the children's videos Pan Canadian Petroleum Ltd. have donated are now processed and are out on the video stand.

Perogy supper
a huge success

The Pioneer Circle would like to thank everyone who took part in making their Perogy Supper such a great success. Over 200 people attended the event.

Many hours of work and generous donations helped with the project. Special thanks to Jean and the Empress for the donation of potatoes and the use of their peeler, the Ukrainian Dance Club for the use of their boards and sheets, and all the volunteers who spent the whole day in preparation.

Thanks to all who attended and supported the supper.

Remembering Don Pinder
A dear, old friend

I lost a friend
it shook me up

so in the cabin
the lamp was lit,

You have tomorrow
and then you've not.

We talked of other things we'd done
relating to our childhood fun.

He was dearly loved by friends and wife
then suddenly he lost his life.

But now a blot
has changed the sun
we never know when life is done,

When last we met
he looked so great
in new blue jeans
for goodness sake

But Don, you know you'll always be a loving memory
for all, like me.

MALO, Pierre Leonce

In memory of Pierre Leonce Malo, who passed away December 9, 1992.

If tear drops could build a stairway

And memories make a lane
We would climb our way to heaven

And bring you home again
Our family link is broken
And nothing is the same
But as God calls us one by one
The chain will link again.

Loved and missed by all your family; especially Lillian,
Larry, Denis, Bernard, Roger,
Louis and Nicole.

17 NOTICES

ALBERTA HOG PRODUCERS! The Alberta Pork Producers Development Corporation is in the process of transferring the ownership of Fletcher's Fine Foods Ltd. to the producers (called extra-levy producers) who contributed the funding for the Fletchers share purchase through an increased service charge during the period of January 6th, 1981 to November 25th, 1985. The transfer of ownership to extra-levy producers will occur by way of a patronage dividend. The patronage dividend is to be paid out in the form of shares in Fletchers (one share in Fletchers for every hog marketed during the extra-levy period). The APPDC declared a patronage dividend on December 31, 1992. On December 31, 1993 the APPDC will again be declaring a patronage dividend. Attention producers who did not market in 1992: you must market a hog before December 31, 1993 to become eligible to receive your shares. Further information 474-8288. 1-1-50

ON THE WAY TO A WIN - The puck sails past the glove of the Paradise Valley Jets goalie as Kelly Harms (facing camera, white sweater) scores his first of two for the Elks Saturday night. Lindsay Jenner (No. 29) skates in to lend a hand, but none was needed: Harms scored unassisted.

Elks down jets twice

Elk Point Elks had back-to-back victories over the Paradise Valley Jets this past week. They made a successful road trip to Paradise Valley last Tuesday, where they had a 5-4 victory over the Jets, while Saturday night's game in Elk Point saw the Jets soundly trounced 13-5.

Tuesday's game featured goals by Sheldon Cardinal, Dwayne Karbushewski, Layne Gauchier and two by Lindsay Jenner, assisted by Karbushewski, Gauchier and Kerry Loughran in a well-matched contest.

The first period of Saturday night's visit by the Jets looked much like Tuesday's game, as Elks goals by Tyson Stafford, assisted by Kerry Loughran, Blair Halfe, assisted by Sheldon Cardinal, and Kelly Harms, unassisted, were quickly answered by the Jets for a 3-3 tie.

The second period was a whole different story, however, as the Elks pounded in no less than 7 goals before the Jets could hit the mark with a power play single. Blair Halfe scored three of the Elks goals, with one apiece coming from Dwayne Karbushewski, Kelly Harms, Greg Desaulniers and Lindsay Jenner. Assists were by Jenner, Cardinal, Corey Laboucane, Kerry Loughran, Stafford, Desaulniers, Halfe and Boratyniec.

The Elks added two more to their 10-4 lead in the first half of the final period, with goals by Kerry Loughran and Corey Laboucane, from assists by Jenner, Cardinal, Harms and Terry Wozniak. The Jets took advantage of two Elk Point penalties to score their final goal just before the midpoint of the period, but a shortage of players and two game misconducts saw the tiring Jets unable to fight back further. The Elks' Greg Desaulniers, assisted by Stafford, scored a parting shot with 23 seconds left on the clock, for a final score of 13-5.

Elks lead league

Elk Point Elks are leading the Sask-Alta Hockey League with an impressive 7 win - 1 loss record, following Sunday's 8-5 road trip victory over Dewberry Mustangs.

The first period was scoreless for almost 14 minutes, before the Elks went on a scoring spree, with three goals in three and a half minutes. Layne Gauchier, Greg Desaulniers and Corey Laboucane were the marksmen, off assists by Dwayne Karbushewski, Sheldon Cardinal, Terry Isaacson and Jon Olson. Dewberry answered the last of the three within 12 seconds, Jason Elliott assisted by Ed Simmons as the Mustangs got on the scoreboard.

The Elks added three to their total in the second, with Karbushewski, Laboucane and Allan Loughran making the goals off assists by Blair Halfe, Cardinal, Gauchier, Olson and Laboucane. Art Parr scored one for the Mustangs, assisted by Elliott, and opened the third period with an unassisted goal. Allan Loughran and Karbushewski scored the final two for the Elks, with assists by Karbushewski, Cardinal, Mike Boratyniec and Rick Marcoux, while Jay Sinclair, assisted by Blair Hanna and Ken Lawrence, and Ed Simmons, unassisted, moved the Mustangs up the scoreboard for a final score of 8 - 5 in the Elks' favor.
